SOVIET PEACE
ENVOY CLAIMS
HE'S INSULTEDDEBATE ON ITALY
STIRS HEATED ARGUMENT

BY LOUIS NEVIN

Paris, Aug. 12. (P)—Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky hurled a charge of "insult" tonight at U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes during a heated argument over continuation of debate on Italy's declaration of the 21-nation peace conference.

The bitter argument was resolved soon afterward when Byrnes discovered an error in the agenda. The Russians had insisted on continuation of the debate after the Yugoslav delegate, replying to Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Saturday speech for Italy, assailed Italian claims to disputed Venezia Giulia and implored the delegates to make no concessions to "the policy of Italian imperialism."

Minutes Consulted

Byrnes, who assumed the chairmanship of the conference today, had ruled earlier that under previously adopted procedure, general debate on the cases of former enemy countries should be deferred, but he yielded to Russian demands by assuring that a motion for general debate would be entertained. Only then, after an hour's debate, could the Yugoslav delegate take the floor.

When the delegate finished his speech, Vishinsky charged that Byrnes' ruling against a general rule was "an infraction of all the rules and an insult to the Soviet Union."

Byrnes consulted the minutes of last Saturday's plenary session when the action on general debates was taken, and agreed promptly that the secretariat had erred in its preparation of the agenda. He scheduled further debate on the Italian declaration for tomorrow, and shortly before the long session was recessed, promised that the name of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov would be placed on the agenda for an address in reply to the Italian case.

Rapid Strides Made

The debate caused postponement of sessions scheduled for tonight by the commissions on Italy's economic and political programs. The meetings, which would have been the first actual concrete consideration of the treaty draft, were put off pending termination of the debate.

The Yugoslav delegate, Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj, made a long and impassioned appeal to the conference to hold the Italian state as such, and not Fascism alone, responsible for Italy's part in the war.

The day's proceedings were marked by protracted arguments, but some rapid strides were made. The conference voted unanimously to invite Albania, Cuba, Mexico and Egypt to give their views on the Italian treaty, although they spent hours debating the rules which should govern these appearances.

The delegates also made an important step forward with the election of a permanent secretariat and a permanent conference general secretary.

Witness Reveals Unusual Deals In Surplus Property

Washington, Aug. 12. (P)—A deal in which Benjamin F. Fields made a profit in surplus government property was "hand processed" through government selling agencies and was "irregular," a government official testified today.

Fields, ex-convict and Washington public relations counselor who was mentioned in the Garsington munitions investigation, explained to the house surplus property investigating committee a "hand processed" transaction was one in which he took the deal "by the hand." Either he or an agent personally carried papers to the various government officials responsible for approving them, he said.

In this particular deal he bought 53,000 live feet of scarce bronze screen for $8,085 and sold it for $12,404. He divided the profit with other people, two of whom, a memorandum showed, he called "John Doe" because he couldn't remember their names.

Fields, testifying at the committee's opening hearing into disposal of surplus property, said that he offered $144,890 for 181 gas refrigerators the government declared surplus and that a few days later the War Assets Administration wrote him the price was $53,395.

The committee, headed by Rep. Slaughter (D-Mo.), loser in a Democratic primary race last week in Missouri, plans to investigate sales that involve hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property, its members said.

TWO ESCANABA
BOYS MISSINGClothing Found At Docks
Identified By Mother;
Police To Search

Search will get under way at daylight today for Lloyd Bruce Adams, 9, and William Adams, 7, two north side boys reported missing last night after their clothing was found on the crib of one of the dismantled government docks between Escanaba and Wells. The brothers, sons of Mrs. Carl Johnson, 1608 Washington avenue, were last seen about 1:30 p. m. Monday on Washington avenue, according to information given the police department. Clothing found at 815 p. m. by the Rev. A. L. Colegrove, 1412 North 19th street, and Vernon Thompson, 619 North 20th street, while fishing at the dock site, was identified by the mother of the boys, the police reported. Chief of Police Mike Ettenhofer immediately made plans to go out at dawn with Capt. Dan Garrett of the lighthouse service to make a search of the deep water area around the docks where the clothing was found.

Father And Son, 12,
Drowned In Lake

Angola, Ind., Aug. 12. (P)—Fred Gilbert, 38, Fort Wayne, and his son, William, 12, drowned tonight in Jimmerson Lake near Angola.

The father and son, together with Robert Hattersley, Jr., 24, also of Fort Wayne, were thrown into the water when a boat powered with an outboard motor sank. Hattersley was rescued by the occupants of another boat.

State police and deputy sheriffs began dragging the lake for the bodies.

Gilbert was employed by the Paterson-Fletcher clothing firm at Fort Wayne. The widow and a two-year-old daughter survive.

About One-Fourth
Of State Veterans
Still In Service

Lansing, Aug. 12. (P)—On the first anniversary of V-J Day, three-fourths of Michigan's contribution to the armed services is back in "civies" the state selective service headquarters estimated today.

The return of 14,940 veterans in July, the service said, raised the state's total discharges to 490,180. A year ago, only 91,294 servicemen had been mustered out.

A large percentage of those still in uniform have reenlisted, the headquarters said.

July separations and totals, respectively, by counties include: Delta, 79,291; Kent, 739,23,743; Muskegon, 301,7,897; Menominee, 62,2,171; Wayne, 6,068,207,548.

Housekeeper Denies
Poisonings; Demands
Exhuming Of Bodies

Madison, Ind., Aug. 12. (P)—Lottie (Tot) Lockman, blacksmith's widow accused of the poisoning of one person and of attempting to poison another, sent her lawyer to Jefferson county authorities today with a demand that the state exhume the bodies "of the other people that Lottie had exclusive charge of when they were living."

The grey-haired, 62-year-old woman told the lawyer, Joseph Cooper, that "As God is my judge, I am innocent. Don't let me down. The deed was not mine."

Mrs. Lockman gave Cooper written permission for exhumation of the body of her late husband, Frank Lockman, and the lawyer delivered the paper to the sheriff's office.

The elderly woman was arrested last night on a warrant charging murder after State Toxicologist Dr. R. N. Harger reported he found mercury in the remains of Mrs. Minnie McConnell, who employed Mrs. Lockman as housekeeper at Dupont, north of here.

Mrs. Lockman had been free on bond on a charge of attempting to murder Mrs. McConnell's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mamie McConnell. Diagnosis of the daughter-in-law's illness as mercury poisoning led Coroner Sidney E. Haigh to order exhumation of the elder Mrs. McConnell's body.

Haigh said he planned to dig up the bodies of four other persons who were in Mrs. Lockman's care in the last years of their lives. They were her blacksmith husband, "Uncle Fred" Giddings, retired farmer who died at the age of 90; Mrs. Mattie Calhoun, a recluse; and Mrs. Lockman's brother-in-law, Wallace Lockman. Haigh has not set a time for the exhumations.

Mrs. Lockman and the McConnell family live in the nearby town of Dupont and the Lockmans and Giddings are buried there. Mrs. Calhoun is buried at Burlington, Ia.

RUN-AWAY FOOD
PRICES RAPPEDMore Strikes Predicted
As Laborers Try To Stay Even

BY EDWIN B. HAKINSON
Washington, Aug. 12. (P)—A spokesman for railroad labor unions declared today that "if the government fails to control food prices in this emergency, it is doubtful if anyone will be able to prevent wildcat strikes in protest."

This testimony was given before the price decontrol board by A. F. Lyon, executive secretary of the Railway Labor Executives Association.

Arguing against restoration of controls on the various items, Edward O'Neal, American Farm Bureau Federation president, said "if we are getting into another period of strict price control we must be realistic and control wages."

He said recollection of grain, livestock, dairy products, cottonseed and soybeans and their products would be a "mistake" and that if the board allows ceilings to be restored it must also restore food rationing.

One of nearly a score of witnesses opposing or supporting return of price lids on sources of major food items, Lyon told the board:

"In a period of uncontrolled prices, labor will demand and rightfully so, increased wages and cost of living bonuses in an attempt to stay even."

He said railroad workers are "dissatisfied" and that they blame the government for allowing "run away prices."

Bolivian Regime

Washington, Aug. 12. (P)—The United States today extended full diplomatic recognition to landlocked, mountainous Bolivia where a dictatorial government was overthrown last month in a bloody revolt.

NEWS SERVICES
ARE DISRUPTEDStrike Embargo Cuts
Off Messages To
And From U. S.

New York, Aug. 12. (P)—The flow of news messages to and from the United States was seriously disrupted today by an American Communications Association (ACA) embargo against eight cable and wireless companies in sympathy with 100 strikers at Press Wireless, Inc.

Joseph Kehoe, national director of the 2,500-member union, said the embargo was "extremely effective."

The four major world wire services, Associated Press, United Press, International News Service and Reuters, said the normal flow of foreign news has been "seriously disrupted" or "greatly restricted."

Only press traffic was affected. Government messages and other commercial traffic were handled as usual by ACA members.

"The embargo will last until the strike is settled," said Lawrence Kammet, ACA publicity director.

Although previous efforts of the U. S. conciliation service to negotiate the dispute had proved fruitless, Kehoe said tonight the union would send a delegation to a conciliation session tomorrow morning.

Press wireless employees walked out six days ago to protest a proposed wage and staff reduction. Supervisory personnel took over the posts abandoned by radio and teleprinter operators and radio engineers, the company said.

Hughes Recovering,

Chicago Man Acquitted
Of Killing Best Friend
He Caught With Wife

Chicago, Aug. 12. (P)—A criminal court jury tonight acquitted Donald Murray of murder in the slaying of his "best friend," Maj. John Fletcher, Canadian army officer whom he found with Murray's nude wife in a loop hotel room last May 27.

The verdict was returned after 43 minutes of deliberation. Murray, 41, a salesman, had testified he shot and killed the 46-year-old Vancouver, B. C., officer in self-defense.

His wife, Doris, 39, also testified that her husband had fired after Fletcher attacked him with a chair.

The prosecution in closing arguments termed the shooting "cold blooded murder" and asked the jury, which had been qualified for the death penalty, for "a verdict of guilty of murder."

The defense contended the shooting was in self-defense and also justified by the unwritten law.

CEILINGS ARE RAISED AGAIN
ON NEW CARSINCREASES RANGE
FROM $62 UP
TO $322

BY MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, Aug. 12. (P)—Retail ceilings on new automobiles climbed to about 22 percent above 1942 prices today as OPA authorized fresh increases ranging from $62 to $322 a car.

The new price increases, effective immediately, are the first of at least two general price hikes required by the new price control act.

Another increase amounting to about five percent will be put into effect soon, OPA officials said.

Today's increases over June 30 ceilings average 7.3 percent or $82 a car. They restore dealers' peacetime profit margins, as ordered by Congress.

On four-door sedan models, today's increases range from $69 for a Chevrolet Stylemaster to $293 on a Cadillac.

On all models, OPA said, the increase range is from $62 on a Chevrolet Business Coupe to $322 on a Cadillac 7-passenger Imperial sedan.

Fourth Since November

In each case today's increases are over June 30 ceilings. The average 7.3 per cent price hike was the fourth general increase in auto ceilings since last November. The total of the three previous increases averaged 15 percent, OPA said.

In its announcement today, OPA listed new ceilings for only four door sedans. Here are some examples of 1942 ceilings and new ceilings on these models, together with the amount of increase:

Plymouth Deluxe, $689 in 1942, $1,142 new, up $253 from 1942 and $73 from June 30.

Plymouth Special Deluxe, $935 in 1942, $1,174 new, up $239 from 1942 and $77 from June 30.

Ford Deluxe, $885 in 1942, $1,066 new, up $183 from 1942 and $73 from June 30.

Ford Super Deluxe, $930 in 1942, $1,134 new, up $204 from 1942 and $77 from June 30.

Chevrolet Fleetmaster, $855 in 1942, $1,076 new, up $221 from 1942 and $74 from June 30.

Chevrolet Stylemaster, $600 in 1942, $1,005 new, up $205 from 1942 and $69 from June 30.

Dodge Deluxe, $998 in 1942, $1,142 new, up $144 from 1942 and $73 from June 30.

The P-80 made the trip in 40 minutes. The air forces said it had previously been erroneously figured to have made the flight at a speed of 667 miles an hour.

Bathing Suit Crew
Moves 33,000 Fish
Near Hammond, Ind.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 12. (P)—Nearly 400 men and women in bathing suits worked six hours yesterday to move 33,000 fish from Lake George here and Tood Park Pond at East Chicago into Wolf Lake here.

John Richter, game warden, obtained special permission to use 50 foot nets to move the fish, after 40,000 fish had died in the last few months in Lake George, which is being filled with steel mill slag.

Dry weather has been responsible for the death of fish in the Tood Park Pond.

Richter said most of the fish moved were blue gills and sun fish, with a good number of perch and pickerel included. He said more fish may be removed from Lake George in the next few weeks.

Plane Crashes With
23 Girls On Holiday

Dublin, Aug. 12. (P)—A French plane carrying 23 girl guides to a holiday in Ireland crashed into a mountain range 40 miles from Dublin during a storm today and first reports indicated 21 of the girls were missing.

One of the plane's pilots and two of the young girls were found injured and taken to hospitals.

Mussolini's Body Found Hidden In Monastery Trunk

Milan, Italy, Aug. 12. (P)—The long-missing body of Benito Mussolini, spirited from its Potter's field grave here last April, has been found wedged into a trunk hidden in a monastery at Pavia, Milan police said tonight.

The police said the body had rested at Sant' Angelo Dei Minori monastery until it was removed yesterday morning to the monastery of the Order of Chartreux at Pavia.

The bullet-riddled, savagely beaten body of the former Duce remained for a year in Maggiora cemetery—in an unmarked grave—after his execution by Italian partisans near the Swiss border in April, 1945.

The bodies of Claretta Petacci, his mistress, and five henchmen, executed at the same time, were buried near his grave.

Then on April 22 Mussolini's body was stolen from the cemetery. Its whereabouts remained a mystery until a monk made a dramatic disclosure of its location today.

The police communicate said two monks had been taken into custody in addition to three men previously held.

The republic's legal procurator will issue an arrest order later, the police department said. Meantime, the body was being guarded in the local police offices until authorities in Rome issued further instructions.

Swift, expert grave robbers dug up the bullet-riddled remains of Mussolini from the former Duce's unmarked pauper's grave during the night of April 22. Officials said a letter had been taken by the "Democratic Fascist party." The open coffin was left beside the grave.

Investigators acting on several false reports of the body's location in the past finally were rewarded today when Padre Alberto of Sant' Angelo Dei Minori monastery offered to tell police where the body was hidden.

One of the thieves, Padre Alberto said, disclosed the secret to him at confession. Before revealing to police the body's location, he added, he would have to obtain permission from certain fugitives.

"Even though we have received no request from you, we must ask that you accept this protection not only for your own welfare, but so that we may fulfill the duty imposed upon us of safeguarding those whose lives may be in jeopardy."

"Our decision is dictated by several important considerations, among them is your prominence in the public life of the state, your activities as special prosecutor of the grand jury, the release on appeal bond of several notorious persons whom you convicted, and the fact that there are at liberty other persons guilty of wrong-doing, who might hope to profit through physical harm befalling you. While we know of no direct threats, nevertheless, there can be no doubt of potential reprisals in connection with your grand jury work and your present position as a candidate for chief executive, with all that this implies in the event of your election. We need only recall the Senator Hooper murder case as an example of the lengths to which desperate criminals will go to thwart justice or gain vengeance."

Capitan Leonard wrote the protection was the same that would be provided for any citizen who is exposed to "similar danger."

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Aug. 12. (P)—Yugoslav authorities held incommunicado today the occupants of an American C-47 army transport plane which was forced down near Ljubljana by Yugoslav fighters last Friday.

A Yugoslav officer in charge at the scene of the crash landing refused to tell a U. S. state department representative where the occupants of the plane had been interned.

Harold A. Shantz, charge d'affaires in the U. S. embassy, said: "We have been given no indication as to when they will be released."

Early reports that the pilot and co-pilot of the plane were injured "apparently were false alarms," Shantz said. He declared that one passenger, whose nationality was unknown, was injured and added: "All the others aboard the plane are in perfect condition."

The passengers included six U. S. Army personnel, one American civilian and three others—one a military man and the other two civilians. All that is known of the identities of the trio is that they were not of American, British or French nationality.

Shantz said the state department representative from Zagreb was told at the scene today that he could not see the interned passengers in charge also refused to give the American representative the names of those aboard the plane but said they were "being given the best of treatment—good quarters and good food."

Husband Shot Dead
While Asleep; Wife
Gets Sanity Tests

Marysville, Mich., Aug. 12. (P)—Mrs. Margaret Shepherd, 39, charged with first-degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, today awaited circuit court examination after entering a not guilty plea when arraigned before Justice Charles F. Hutchins.

Prosecutor Fred W. George, Jr., said she would undergo a sanity hearing before appearance in circuit court Friday, and she was remanded to jail without bond.

Police Chief Fred Snay said Mrs. Shepherd told him she shot her husband, Elgin Shepherd, 39, with a 12-gauge shotgun while he slept Sunday on a davenport in their home.

Mrs. Shepherd, who had been married 20 years told the police chief her husband had been beating her and physicians said she "had been roughed up a bit."

BRITAIN SETS
AGAINST JEWSPALESTINE BECOMES
ARMED CAMP; KEY
PORTS GUARDED

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
London, Aug. 12. (P)—Britain declared tonight civil war threatened the Holy Land and invoked a total blockade against illegal Jewish immigration.

Bitter reaction followed immediately, with one Jewish leader declaring the decision would result in "much more suffering—but it won't stop the stream of immigrants."

Palestine itself was an armed camp as the British government announced that illegal immigrants attempting to enter Palestine would be interned at Cyprus or elsewhere until the problem was settled.

Barb Wire In Streets
All possible steps to halt the flow of immigrants at the source have been taken, the government said, "including 'urgent representations' to governments of countries from which thousands of refugees are dispatched by what the statement called a 'highly organized' Zionist-financed movement. Palestine authorities were instructed that 'the reception of illegal immigrants must cease.'"

As the British decision was made known, rigid military restrictions were clamped on Palestine. Tank-led Tommies streamed into key ports of disembarkation. Barbed wire ringed streets and government buildings.

Off heavily guarded Haifa harbor lay the British cruiser Ajax and British destroyers. Two empty troopships were anchored in the harbor—possibly for use in deporting thousands of uncertified refugees who have arrived in the past two weeks.

RAF patrols droned over eastern Mediterranean in search of new refugee ships reported en route, and in Cyprus, the island crown colony, war was rushed on the completion of a huge detention camp.

Unscrupulous Plot Charged
The government announcement, foreshadowed by weeks of diplomatic and military preparations, said Britain could not tolerate "the attempt by a minority of Zionist extremists to exploit the sufferings of unfortunate people in order to create a situation prejudicial to a just settlement." This situation was unfair, the statement said, to the regular Jewish immigrant certified under the legal 1,500 monthly quota.

The Colonial office disclosed that 9,446 illegal immigrants reached Palestine in the last eight months. Monthly totals rose sharply in May, June and July, with 3,800 arriving last month alone, the figures showed.

The steady stream of immigrants, the government said, a spontaneous movement by European Jews who see their only hope in Palestine.

"Recent developments have revealed the illegal immigrant traffic as a widely ramified and highly organized movement supported by very large financial contributions from Zionist sources, which has been built up and put into operation by unscrupulous persons in an attempt to force the hand of his majesty's government and anticipate their decision on future policy in Palestine."

Ships Overcrowded
"The organizers maintain a closely knit network of agents in the countries of eastern and southern Europe, by whom considerable numbers of displaced Jews are moved from points of departure as

SHIPPERS SEEK STRIKE REMEDY

Walkout Of Great Lakes Seamen Set For Thursday

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—A night session was arranged by the labor department tonight to bring the important Inland Steel Corporation into conciliation conferences aimed at averting a Great Lakes shipping strike for 12:01 a. m. Thursday.

The Inland Company accepted the labor department's invitation to attend the meetings with government conciliators and representatives of the CIO-National Maritime Union, after previously refusing to be present.

A spokesman for the department said all major Great Lakes carriers with whom the Maritime Union has bargaining rights are represented.

Working against time, conciliators have attempted to narrow down the issues and settle all but the toughest ones piecemeal. The chief demands are for a 40-hour work week, instead of the present 56-hour week, and a contract provision for employment through union hiring halls.

In addition to Inland Steel, other shippers involved in the conferences, representing approximately one tenth of the 400 vessels on the Great Lakes are:

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, Bethlehem Transportation Corp., subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel Corp., J. Nicholson Transit Co., Johnson Transportation Co., Lake Tanker Corp., Jupiter Steamship Co., Brown and Shasta Steamship Co., Interstate Steamship Co., Ford Motor Co., International Harvester Co., Great Lakes Transport Co., Cleveland Tankers, Inc., and American Steel and Wire Co.

Vernon Slips, But Holds Stick Lead

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP)—Mickey Vernon, Washington first baseman, slumped six percentage points last week, but his .351 mark still led the American league batting race by seven points.

Runner-up Ted Williams of Boston also faltered during the week, slipping seven points to .344. Vernon collected only nine hits in 32 trips, while Williams bagged three in 16 appearances.

Boston's Johnny Pesky strengthened his hold on third place by climbing nine points to .336, while Luke Appling of Chicago moved into fourth spot with a 12-point rise to .328.

Other leaders through Sunday's games included George Kell of Detroit and Hank Edwards of Cleveland, .322 each; Dom DiMaggio of Boston .316; Johnny Berardino of St. Louis .308; Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, a new-comer to the top 10, .302; and Vern Stephens of St. Louis .298.

Williams, despite his slim week, continued to lead in three specialized departments, adding two home runs for a 31 total, boosting his run-batted-in aggregate five to 102, and scoring five times for a total of 110 runs.

Cleveland's George Case maintained the lead in stolen bases with 25, while Pesky kept ahead in hits with 152, a gain of 12. Stan Spence of Washington moved into a tie with team-mate Vernon for the two-bagger leadership at 37, and Edwards gained sole possession of the triple lead with 11.

Woman Pilot Killed In Crash At Lorain, O.

Overlin, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Marsha Kruger, 30, of Detroit, died in Allen hospital today of injuries received Friday when a plane she was piloting crashed 10 miles west of Lorain, O.

A former Wasp in the Army Ferry Command, Mrs. Kruger suffered a fractured skull and broken jaw.

Mrs. Cloe Franklin, 38, of Detroit, a passenger in the plane, was injured also, but is reported recovering.

No cause as yet has been assigned for the crash, which occurred on a farm in Henrietta township. Mrs. Kruger was reported to have been making a test flight from Detroit in the ship, a former army trainer plane.

Disease Breaks Out In Earthquake Area

Mantanzas, Dominican Republic, Aug. 12 (AP)—A sudden outbreak of disease capped the terror of earthquake and tidal wave on this Caribbean island today as upward of 75 persons were stricken with paratyphus malaria or intestinal ailment in a single camp of 500 refugees.

Jarring tremors continue to beat against the island, averaging two or three a day. In Ciudad Trujillo residents were awakened by a tremor at 3:40 a. m. (CDT) today. Many persons were still sleeping out of doors in the capital.

Plane Finds Island Unoccupied; Message On Plate Asks Help

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 12 (AP)—Canadian provincial police today abandoned a search of Middle Sister Island, a Canadian island near the mouth of the Detroit river, after an airplane flight over the island disclosed it was unoccupied.

Police launched a widespread search in response to a message or help found late Saturday on the Canadian shore.

The message, reading, "Send help—Middle Sister," was found three miles east of Colchester, nt. Middle Sister Island is rocky so uninhabited.

Observation from the plane disclosed no signs of life on the land. The pilot "dive-bombed" the island several times in an effort to attract the attention of anyone who might be there.

President Decides Against Seizure Of J. I. Case At Racine

By Harold W. Ward

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—Rejecting a recommendation of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, President Truman has decided not to seize the strike-bound J. I. Case company farm machinery plant at Racine, Wis.

The decision not to take over the plants was announced today by Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, who said the president felt seizures should be ordered only where the public welfare "is vitally involved."

It was assumed that the decision against seizure would apply also to the much larger Allis-Chalmers company with headquarters at West Allis, Wis., whose eight plants likewise have been shut down by strikes of the CIO-Auto Workers and CIO-United Electrical Workers for months.

Musial Recaptures Batting Leadership

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Hard-hitting Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals recaptured the National league's individual batting leadership during the past week by clubbing senior league hurling at a .697 pace.

The Cards first baseman rapped out 12 bingles in 18 trips to the plate including games of Sunday to increase his mark from .354 to .369.

Musial, who last led the parade on June 25, replaced Brooklyn's Dixie Walker as the league's top hitter. Walker dropped to third place as his average fell 16 points from .379 to .362, two points behind the .364 possessed by runner-up Johnny Hopp of Boston.

Musial also paces the circuit in hits, 154, runs scored, 84, doubles, 31, and triples, 13.

Johnny Mize, injured first baseman of the New York Giants, retained fourth place with a .339 figure. Training Mize are Phil Cavarretta, Chicago, .08; Billy Herman, Boston, .303; Ed Stanky, Brooklyn and Enos Slaughter, St. Louis, .302; Tommy Holmes, Boston, .300 and Frank McCormick, Philadelphia, .299.

By batting in seven runs Sunday, Slaughter brought his league leading total to 85, five more than driven home by Walker. Mize, although out of action most of the week, retained the home run honors with 22 as compared to Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner's 16. Pistol Pete Reiser of Brooklyn continues to pace the league in stolen bases with 25.

Murry Dickson of St. Louis is the leading hurler with a 11 and 3 mark with Philadelphia's Schoolboy Rowe second with a 11 and 4 record.

Woman Pilot From Detroit Killed In Crash At Lorain, O.

Disease Breaks Out In Earthquake Area

Mantanzas, Dominican Republic, Aug. 12 (AP)—A sudden outbreak of disease capped the terror of earthquake and tidal wave on this Caribbean island today as upward of 75 persons were stricken with paratyphus malaria or intestinal ailment in a single camp of 500 refugees.

Jarring tremors continue to beat against the island, averaging two or three a day. In Ciudad Trujillo residents were awakened by a tremor at 3:40 a. m. (CDT) today. Many persons were still sleeping out of doors in the capital.

Plane Finds Island Unoccupied; Message On Plate Asks Help

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 12 (AP)—Canadian provincial police today abandoned a search of Middle Sister Island, a Canadian island near the mouth of the Detroit river, after an airplane flight over the island disclosed it was unoccupied.

Police launched a widespread search in response to a message or help found late Saturday on the Canadian shore.

The message, reading, "Send help—Middle Sister," was found three miles east of Colchester, nt. Middle Sister Island is rocky so uninhabited.

Observation from the plane disclosed no signs of life on the land. The pilot "dive-bombed" the island several times in an effort to attract the attention of anyone who might be there.

CEILINGS ARE RAISED AGAIN ON NEW CARS

161 now, up $263 from 1942 and $85 from June 30.

Buick Series, 50, $1,280 in 1942, $1,567 now, up $287 from 1942 and $108 from June 30.

Hudson Super 6, $1,092 in 1942, $1,360 now, up $268 from 1942 and $103 from June 30.

Nash Ambassador 6, $1,069 in 1942, $1,366 now, up $297 from 1942 and $104 from June 30.

These ceilings are retail list prices. They do not include federal excise taxes, handling, and delivering charges or transportation charges.

The additional price increases required by the new law will be discussed with dealers at a conference tomorrow, OPA said. In predicting this increase will be about five percent, officials said they hope that will be the last boost in auto price ceilings.

However, auto manufacturers—whose ceilings were not changed by today's order—are now eligible to apply for higher prices under terms of the Barkley amendment to the price control act. Whether they may qualify for increases, OPA could not say.

Dispute Settled At Packard Plant; 8,500 Resume Work

Detroit, Aug. 12 (AP)—Settlement of a labor dispute that idled an estimated 8,500 employees of the Packard Motor Car Co. for one week was announced today by officials of Local 190, CIO-United Auto Workers.

President Walter Ervin of the local said the first workers will be recalled Tuesday and that production will resume Wednesday.

The Packard dispute, which the union termed a "lockout," and management called a "walkout," also forced the layoff of 2,900 Briggs Manufacturing Co. employees who make Packard bodies.

Terms of the Packard settlement were not announced but George T. Christopher, president of the company, said eight grievances were discussed with the union since the plant closed Aug. 6.

The disagreement centered around repair work scheduled by the company within the plant.

Oil Well Drilled In Bed Of Wabash; Leases In Danger

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 12 (AP)—C. A. Lynch, Evansville oil operator, said tonight he planned to bring in an oil well Wednesday in the bed of the Wabash River near New Harmony.

Lynch said the well was the first to be drilled in the river bed.

Lynch's announcement came on the eve of a meeting of the State Conservation Commission at Indianapolis at which department officials planned to recommend cancellation of leases held by Lynch and David Henry Smith of Worthington for non-compliance.

Robert F. Wirsching, director of state parks, said tonight he would recommend to the commission that the leases be cancelled, even though drilling has been started.

Lynch said the well which he expected to bring in Wednesday is located in the Wabash, just off Mink Island, where wells which he operates are reported producing heavily.

Last Place Pirates Nose Reds, 3 and 2

Pittsburgh, Aug. 12 (AP)—Edson Bahr gave Cincinnati seven hits today as the last place Pirates nosed out the Reds, 3 to 2, for their third straight win. It was the seventh loss in a row for Cincinnati.

Three of Cincinnati's hits were doubles by Bert Haas. The Reds' first baseman doubled home the first Cincinnati run in the second inning and got his third two-bagger to start a ninth inning rally.

The Pirates scored their winning run in the sixth on two singles, a sacrifice and an infield fly. Ed Heusser was charged with the Reds' defeat. Elwell Blackwell finished the game for the losers.

Communism In CIO Charged; Furniture Union Goes To AFL

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 12 (AP)—An estimated 2,500 members of Local 415, CIO United Furniture Workers, protesting what they termed "Communist domination" of the CIO union, voted today to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor.

They followed the lead of three of their officials who announced that they were "compelled" to resign "because of the Communist influence, control and domination of the policies and activities of the Furniture Workers of America."

The men were Morris Miller, who resigned a regional director of the UFW and as president of the Kent County CIO Council, Fred Bonine, who quit as president of Local 415, and Leon Quillon, who resigned as a member of the UFW's international executive board.

Miller said, following a mass meeting, that there was only one dissenting vote on the proposal to withdraw from the CIO and affiliate with the AFL Upholsterers International Union.

Admission Of Eire And Transjordan In U.N. Bucked By Reds

By MAX HARRELSON

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Soviet Russia today opposed the admission of Eire and Transjordan into the United Nations after the security council's 11-nation membership committee had expressed approval of Afghanistan's application.

Russian delegate Alexei N. Kravitskiy said flatly that he could not support either Eire or Transjordan, but gave no reasons for his opposition. He reserved the right to come back to the two applications later.

In accordance with the procedure agreed upon by the committee, no formal votes on the nine applications will be taken until all have been considered.

Today's discussions, therefore, left the way open for further consideration of the Transjordan and Eire applications before the committee sends its recommendations to the security council.

far distant as Poland down to the Mediterranean seaboard.

"Thence, herded into overcrowded and unseaworthy ships with insufficient food and in conditions of the utmost privation and squalor, they are brought across the Mediterranean, inspired by a conviction carefully instilled into them that this is their only road to safety."

"In all this process the laws and regulations of the countries concerned are ignored. Identity and ration cards, travel documents, etc., are forged on a large scale; food, clothing, medical supplies and transport provided by UNRRA and other agencies for the relief of suffering in Europe are diverted to the maintenance of what is openly described as the "underground railway to Palestine."

Tension Increased

The government said the traffic presented a grave danger to law and order in Palestine.

"The reception and guarding of large numbers of illegal immigrants places a severe strain on the administration. Their arrival has greatly increased tension between the Arab and Jewish communities in Palestine. And since there is evidence that the terrorist element among the Jews has been reinforced from the ranks of the illegal immigrants, their promiscuous introduction clearly cannot be tolerated any longer."

In Paris, where the Jewish Agency executive is conferring, agency chairman David Ben Gurion commented that "it is not yet sure that Mr. Bevin (British Foreign Secretary) should have the last word in history," and Berl Locker, British member of the executive, predicted the decision would result in "much more suffering." Mrs. Goldie Meyerson, leader of the Jewish Federation in Palestine, exclaimed, "it is almost beyond belief."

Stating that continuation of such traffic was likely to have an adverse effect on hopes for a settlement in Palestine, the British announcement said:

"It is clear that a permanent solution of this complicated question can only be brought about if Jews and Arabs are prepared to enter discussions in a realistic constructive spirit in order to evolve a practical scheme for harmonizing the claims of these two historic peoples."

The system of type measurement in which a point equals 1/72 inch was adopted in the United States in 1878.

Prof. R. Dorson In Escanaba, Seeking U. P. Folk Tales

Professor Richard M. Dorson, director of the Michigan State College Folklore Archives, East Lansing, is in Escanaba gathering material for the archives and for a book which he is preparing on the subject for the area. He is eager to meet local residents who may have information on the subject.

The purpose of Prof. Dorson's present work is to collect and preserve the oral traditional lore of Michigan families and communities. This lore, if not set down in permanent written form and properly arranged, will eventually be lost from memory. Other countries have done much to collect folklore, but in the United States such work is just beginning.

He is seeking the tales, legends, anecdotes, superstitions, and customs which are a part of the cultural heritage of the state. Tall tales, the exaggerated hero-tales, anecdotes about the local "characters," household tales passed on to each generation, memories of pioneer times, dialect stories, historical legends, and, particularly for the Upper Peninsula, the racial lore that reflects the cosmopolitan groups in the area.

Persons having a knowledge of such tales may reach Prof. Dorson, while he is in Escanaba, at the Sherman hotel.

ROTARIANS HEAR REV. KJELLBERG

Methodist Pastor Talks
On Need Of World
Organization

The need for unity and a world organization dedicated to peace was described yesterday noon to the Escanaba Rotary Club by the Rev. Glenn Kjellberg, pastor of the Memorial Methodist church of Gladstone in a talk on the subject "One World—Or None."

Important factors and forces are now converging to a focal point in history, the speaker said. These are making more important than ever the need for a world organization.

Development of social groups from the family to tribal, to feudal and then to modern nations was traced by Rev. Kjellberg, who said the gathering together for security was the basis for such development. That need still exists and in view of what has transpired world organization is the next step in the development of protective organization.

Another factor is the development of speedier modes of travel and communications. Today communication around the world is a matter of minutes, and travel a matter of hours, thus drawing the peoples of the world closer together.

Third development is that of religion, which through the concept of one God of all men has laid the foundation for internationalism, Rev. Kjellberg said.

The speaker described the death and destruction caused by the atomic bombing of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, and declared that destructive effects of the bombs, and later in tests at Bikini have not been fully reported upon. He quoted defense authorities as reporting that they believe there can be no adequate defense against the atomic bomb.

An international organization is the only answer to the present problem of the world and people must think that way whether they are ready for world unity or not, he said. The time is here, he concluded, when people must think religiously and realistically on a new level in preparation for world organization and world unity.

Ultraviolet Rays Discover Streaks In Printed Textiles

Washington—Invisible ultraviolet radiation, which already has many applications in medicine, chemistry and the industries, now helps in a new field, detecting streaks and smears in printed textiles.

Use of ultraviolet for this purpose is among important findings made in the German textile industry by American postwar investigators. A special lamp is used which is called "Flu-Text." It is an eight-inch quartz light tube, attached to the upper part of a reflector, and can be used in full daylight or in strong artificial light to examine materials. Fluorescent substances are added to the print paste to increase luminescence of certain print colors.

Other German processes in the textile industry were found by the scientists and textile technicians which may have value in the American industry. The Office of Technical Services of the U. S. Department of Commerce issued today a report available to those interested at a small cost.

AGED PATIENTS FOUND CHAINED

Nursing Home Branded
"House Of Horror"
At Indianapolis

Indianapolis, (AP)—Officers said Saturday they found elderly patients chained to their beds behind locked doors in a nursing home on Indianapolis' near north side.

Prosecutor Sherwood Blue, who led the raid, filed charges of assault and battery, malicious mayhem and operating a nursing home without a license against Mrs. Margaret Colvin, 50, who operated the home.

Blue said the officers who entered the establishment, found "a house of horror."

He said some of the 29 patients were chained to their beds. Many of them were mental cases, he said, and some were recipients of old age assistance from the Department of Public Welfare.

The prosecutor said he found a 24-year-old girl chained to what he called a "torture board." Her hands and legs were chained to a table and the chains were locked around her ankles and wrists.

"There were four other patients in the same room," Blue said, "and the door was latched from the outside."

The basement of the nursing home was filled with old papers and boxes, constituting a fire hazard, the prosecutor said.

Dr. Clifford Williams, the manager and secretary of the Indiana Mental Health Council, accompanied the officers on the visit to the home and made arrangements for the care of the elderly patients.

Blue said a warrant had also been issued for the arrest of Herschel Cloven, 27, son of Mrs. Cloven. He has been charged with operating a nursing home without a license.

Michigan Tech Expands

THE Michigan College of Mining and Technology of Houghton enters a new era of expansion with the acquisition of Fort Brady, which will be converted into a branch institution for first year credit and short courses.

With the barracks and other buildings of the fort at its disposal, Michigan Tech will be better able to accommodate the hundreds of former service men who have been applying for enrollment under the GI Bill of Rights. The expansion will make Michigan Tech one of the larger educational institutions in the state.

Conversion of the historic fort at the Sault into a branch of Michigan Tech also will put the buildings into good use. If buildings were razed, as probably would have been done if business men and Michigan Tech officials had not gotten busy, Sault Ste. Marie would have lost a valuable asset. Fort Brady, during the many years troops were stationed there, meant a worthwhile payroll to Sault Ste. Marie, and as an educational institution it likely will be of greater importance to the community.

Gilded Smut

A DOWNSTATE editor says that the book publishing business is in a bad way from a morals standpoint, and that the reading public is becoming disgusted with some publishers' output.

A New York publisher is under prosecution for having distributed a recent "best seller" through a book club. The publisher offers as an alibi that his contract with the author called for no deletions in the manuscript. This is no excuse. Every state has laws for the protection of the public against immorality in print. The supposition is plain that the publisher, in order to get a "good seller," wasn't too squeamish about what he was publishing.

The editor adds that of the ten best selling novels in the United States today, at least six could not be read aloud in any decent family gathering. He feels that more than one publishing house has become an agency of mental prostitution catering to the intellectual underworld.

It could be said with reason, too, that some of the so-called better newspapers and magazines are employing nit-wit and left-wing neurotics as literary editors and reviewers. These people, who are overfond of dirt and who label protesters as prudes, can hardly be classed as good Americans. They are too often tainted with European decadence.

There is plenty of good reading on the book market today—clean novels, a wealth of history and folklore, hundreds of excellent travel stories, the classics of the centuries, the works of great contemporaries like Wells, Shaw, Van Loon, and many others. This is a land of freedom, but we should draw a line over which filth-for-its-own-sake cannot be allowed to step. Freedom is priceless, but freedom that degenerates into license and obscenity is worse than no freedom at all.

Fighting Another Killer

THE courageous fight which the late President Roosevelt made against infantile paralysis, and the eminent career which he achieved in spite of his affliction, served to focus public attention and public action on that disease to a remarkable degree. And though the prevention of the disease is still an unsolved mystery, the relief available to its sufferers is infinitely greater than it was a decade ago.

The campaign against infantile paralysis has also called attention, in an inverse way, to the comparative lack of public interest in other, equally serious, and much more prevalent diseases. Among these is rheumatic fever, which is the object of intensive research recently begun at Johns Hopkins University.

Rheumatic fever is our deadliest killer of children. It takes more young lives than all other children's diseases combined—20 times more than are killed by poliomyelitis. It strikes 90 per cent of its victims between the ages of 5 and 7.

The great majority of these victims come from families whose food or housing is inadequate. But the disease occurs in all strata of society, in all sections of the country, and at all seasons.

Not too much is known about rheumatic fever. It is thought to be "set off" by an infection, probably streptococci. It usually goes through three stages.

The first may exhibit the symptoms of a common cold. The second, some weeks later, may be marked by fever and swollen and painful joints and muscles. In the third stage, involvement of the heart is evident.

The medical profession is confronted with a number of problems in its effort to combat rheumatic fever. There is an immediate need to improve and increase early recognition, for it is difficult of diagnosis. There is immediate need of a much longer period of rest and supervised care for patients. And, of course, there is the ultimate need to minimize its damaging effects and, hopefully, to find and nullify its cause.

A splendid but little-known pioneering job has been done by the St. Francis Sanatorium for Cardiac Children outside New York City, at Roslyn, Long Island. This is apparently the only hospital in the country which has devoted itself to clinical research of the disease and to providing the prolonged bed-rest which is vitally necessary if the patient is to survive into an adult life of restricted activity, which is the best he can hope for.

Now that Johns Hopkins has added its facilities to those already engaged in the fight against this widespread and deadly affliction, it is to be hoped that, when and if a concerted national campaign is organized, the public will respond with the same will and generosity that has aided medical science so notably in its battle against another childhood scourge.

No Over-All Survey

MEMBERS of the technical committee of the Michigan planning commission, meeting in Marquette recently, decided that it would not be advisable to conduct an over-all economic survey of the Upper Peninsula.

It was the consensus of the members that sufficient amount of data was available from previous surveys to enable communities to map their own development programs. Perhaps, this is just as well. After all, it is the responsibility of the local community, which should know its own problems, to undertake industrial and other development projects for its own welfare. The technical committee feels that the planning commission can aid local groups in their plans, but cannot impose any schemes for development upon communities.

TIMBER CUTTING

(Milwaukee Journal)

Lyle F. Watts, chief of the United States forest service, recently again warned that we must have some form of federal and state regulation controlling the cutting of timber, even on privately owned lands.

He said: "We cannot clear cut any more. The demand for lumber will continue to be high for many years."

The annual needs for wood will run to some 60 billion feet, including pulpwood, under Mr. Watts' estimates. The greatest wartime lumber cut was 36 1/2 billion feet, together with a peak pulpwood cut of 15 1/2 million cords.

All this, and many other facts, spells another devastation of the lakes states and other timber and pulpwood producing areas unless there is some form of controlled cutting.

Mr. Watts correctly says that "the real problem is not so much with the holders of large tracts" as it is with "small owners of less than 5,000 acres."

These small operators must, for the most, gain revenues quickly, since they are not generally in financial positions to finance long time programs.

This means that they may cut many trees which are just reaching maturity and soon would produce seeds—vitaly needed in Wisconsin, right now, for nursery plantings.

It means that they may cut everything that will make a "two by four," though some of these trees would be many times more productive in a number of years.

There perhaps should be federal control over saw log or major lumbering operations. State control might be the better answer for pulpwood cutting, since that is a more definitely localized operation.

In Wisconsin, the paper industry is doing much to restore and properly harvest forest crops. A few loggers or lumbermen also are engaging in sound programs. But there still is too much promiscuous cutting.

SHAME ON ATHENS

(Detroit News)

We concede in the beginning that it is as futile to cry out on the stupidity of the population of Athens, Tenn., as to lament the attempt to cleanse politics by the shedding of blood in any other of the world's troubled corners, such as Palestine and Trieste.

But it is nonetheless important that we of the United States come to realize that these events are of a piece and that the reign of law is vulnerable to the terror from within as from without.

In every case where force is employed to compel a political decision, the excuse can be offered that there is "adequate provocation." But the effect of brutality is to encourage others in its use and finally to destroy all respect for law.

The fight against corrupt politics in the United States is a lasting contest. It requires much more than patience; if we are to progress, men must have the courage of a belief in the ultimate soundness of democratic institutions.

Lacking that faith, and the enduring effort which is required to make it work, the only outcome is a recourse to violence which in the long run is far more corrupting to our politics than all other evils which it professes to fight against.

WORDS TO WATCH

Let's talk about "color" words today. The names of most colors, of course, are seldom if ever mispronounced. A few, however, are usually mispronounced chiefly because of confusing spelling.

Mauve, for instance, suggests an "aw" sound, as in fraud, gauze, jaunt, which accounts for the mispronunciation "mawv." But the word is from the French, and in that language "au" has the sound of "oh."

Mauve, then, should rhyme with stove. Likewise, taupe, the French word for "mole," the animal (hence, "mole-colored"), is often given an erroneous "aw" sound. But the vowel sound is "oh," making taupe rhyme with-dope, rope, thus:

Washington—The members of the 79th Congress are back home. For a change, they are listening instead of talking—trying to find out what people are thinking before they begin to campaign.

Like every other Congress, the 79th was a pretty fair cross-section of the country; probably better than we deserve, in the light of our political apathy, and indifference. One thing most people tend to forget—and that goes for those of us who spend a lot of time observing Congress—is the proportion of serious-minded, earnest men and women who work hard at the job of being a representative or a senator.

The demagogues and the special-interest servers make so much noise that we forget they are not a majority but a rather small minority. We hear a lot about John Rankin of Mississippi but very little, to take one example, about Mrs. Frances P. Bolton.

The congresswoman from Ohio works hard at her job. But as she has often said, if she were not in congress, she could find a number of other ways to occupy herself in the public good.

Or, being a woman of wealth, she could do nothing. Mrs. Bolton is well aware, however, that wealth entails responsibility. She knows that a conservative is not someone who merely says no in a loud, angry voice. A conservative must know how to conserve, which does not mean standing in the way of all change.

A Republican, Mrs. Bolton has often fought for measures which most of her fellow Republicans in the House felt were dangerously radical and contrary to "state rights." The latest example was her effort to get an appropriation to continue federal aid in the fight on organized vice and juvenile delinquency.

For many years, Mrs. Bolton has been a vice-chairman of the American Social Hygiene Association. She knows, out of expert knowledge, the devastating impact of war on morals and manners. Yet Congressmen Frank B. Keefe of Wisconsin and John W. Gwynne of Iowa dismissed the matter as of merely local concerns. They talked sneeringly of federal snoots butting into other peoples' business.

Unlike her Republican colleague, Clare Boothe Luce, who can rarely resist the temptation to sacrifice an issue to a wisecrack, Mrs. Bolton is in earnest in her objectives. One goal has been to get something done about the notoriously bad hospitals in the District of Columbia. Here again, Mrs. Bolton has expert knowledge, having had probably more experience in hospital administration than most non-professionals.

As a member of a foreign affairs subcommittee, Mrs. Bolton went on a tour last year that took her to Russia, Poland, all the Balkan countries, and every country in the Near East. Only the lady from Ohio and one other colleague went the whole route. Visiting Saudi Arabia, she became the only woman ever to sit in conference with King Ibn Saud. She was also the only outsider ever to visit the King's harem.

Elected to fill the unexpired term of her husband when he died, Mrs. Bolton has been re-elected three times. Renominated in this year's Republican primary without opposition, she does not anticipate too stiff a fight this fall. Yet, after a vacation, she is going home to campaign with the vigor and forthrightness of a veteran.

On the other side of the aisle, in the Congress that is now history sat Representative Jerry Voorhis of California. Voorhis is a progressive. He and Mrs. Bolton do not speak the same political language. But they have in common a great sense of the responsibility of the office they hold.

Voorhis has been called the hardest working member of Congress. The number of hours of work he averages a day would make a good trade-unionist turn cold with horror. Like Mrs. Bolton, he has a wide range of interests and also a specialized knowledge—in education—which makes him particularly useful.

Unhappily, the system under which Congress works puts a premium on demagoguery. It is partly, too, the fault of the press. The windy voice, mounting nothing, gets the headlines. The earnest day-to-day work is too often overlooked.

Reduction of the number of committees in House and Senate under the La Follette-Monroney bill is a definite advance. That measure represents a real victory in the struggle to bring Congress up to date. But the committee system still gives the demagogues and the time servers an edge over men and women who take their obligation seriously.

Chartreuse, a brilliant yellow, takes its name from the liqueur which was made originally at the French monastery la Grande Chartreuse. Avoid "shahr-trooss," the second syllable rhyming with "loose, goose." The vowel sound of the second syllable is approximately the "u" as heard in Turk, lurk. The "s" has heard in Turk, lurk. The "s" has the sound of "z." Say: shahr-TRIZ.

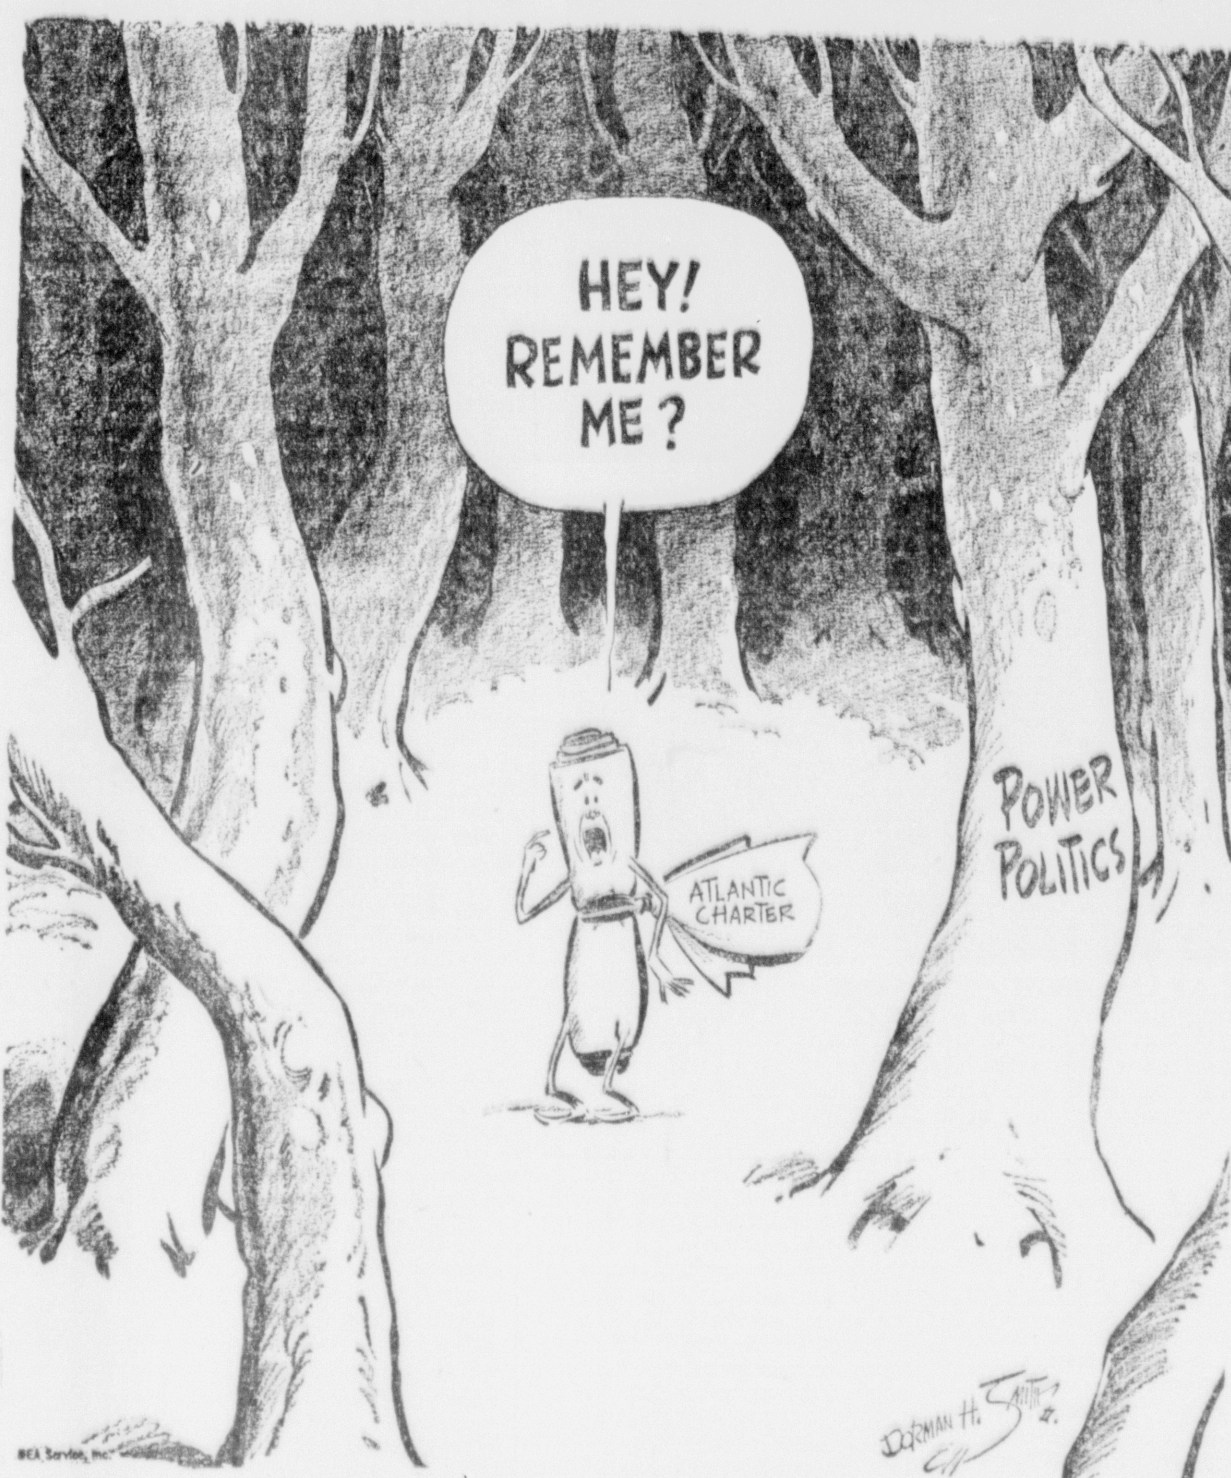

Aqua, short for aquamarine, a blue-green color, is sometimes called "AY-kuh." The prevailing American pronunciation, however, is: ASK-wuh.

Lapis lazuli, a rich, azure blue, takes its name from the stone whose color is blue. Both "a's" are flat, as in "lap." The "li" of lazuli is "ly" to rhyme with "by, my." Say: LAP-iss LAZH-up-ly; or LAP-iss LAZH-yoo-ly.

The "g" of beige should not be pronounced like "j." It has the "zh" sound as heard in "measure, azure." Say: bayzh.

And watch the second syllable of azure. Not "AZH-yoor." The "u" is pronounced "er," to rhyme with "her, per." Say: AZH-er.

A Voice Crying in the Wilderness

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

ALL AGOG—An estimable Escanaba woman, returning from a recent week end at Mackinac Island, remarked in passing that people of the Island were somewhat perturbed over this column's failure to treat the summertime movie-making episode there with the proper respect.

For the benefit of those who believe there is something glamorous about the movies we herewith present accounts of Mackinac Island's experience with the movie stars as reported by the St. Ignace Republican-News. We will call it our "Isn't It Exciting?" department.

St. Ignace, July 18.—St. Ignace telephone operators enjoyed Monday morning witnessing the genuine making of a movie, "This Time for Keeps", as guests of Jimmy Durante, who is with the MGM movie troupe at Mackinac Island this week for the final scenes in the technicolor production started at the Island last winter.

The girls met Jimmy Durante and Lauritz Melchior and were photographed with Durante. Melchior came aboard the ship for a scene, while Durante had a scene shot at the waterfront.

It was an opportunity for the local girls to witness the actual making of a movie and they enjoyed every minute of their stay and came away with autographs by Durante and Melchior.

During the week the Island has been busy with the MGM stars, equipment and technicians arriving daily. Last Friday Esther Williams, picture star, toured the Island in the Grand Hotel carriage.

The blue and white serpentine pool at the Grand has been done particularly and furnished with lounging chairs of special design and beauty for the scenes of Miss Williams in the pool, where she will be featured in the picture.

Co-starred with Miss Williams is Johnnie Johnston, who on Friday played the Grand golf course for five hours.

Melchior and the Pasternaks toured the Island in carriages. The former is a Metropolitan opera star while Joe Pasternak is a movie producer.

Thousands of visitors witnessed the movie-making and the stars were followed by large crowds.

Mackinac Island, July 25.—Guests at the Blue Room, Grand Hotel, have had an unusual thrill this past ten days.

Gazing at the next table one can possibly see Esther Williams and Johnny Johnston. Across the room comes a loud noise, and none other than Snookie Durante and Lawrence Melchior.

Gladly they will autograph for you, and on passing you next day on the Island streets they will say good day and hope you enjoy your evening at the Grand.

Mackinac Island, Aug. 1.—People of Mackinac Island, locale of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer technicolor movie "This Time for Keeps", are earnestly working for the premiere of the recently filmed production to be held at the site of the making of its most gorgeous natural scenes.

After 10 days of hobnobbing with production greats, including (Editor's note: Names of "greats" appear above)—Islanders and their tens of thousands of summer guests have settled down

Mackinac's state ferry Straits of Mackinac and T. Taylor's St. Ignace trucking units were needed to move the technical equipment of the Island last week and in the same movement the Island's city council and Lions Club embarked upon a program to secure the first showing of the picture at the historic Island.

And in the meantime, Islanders and Michigan people will wait with interested anticipation announcement of the picture's release date.

Mackinac Island may have all of the things claimed for it by the Chamber of Commerce and the Development Bureau, but when Joe Pasternak—he's a movie producer, you know—decided on that Island as a locale it was a hard-headed business decision. He checked off the list of places where movie stars have cavorted in the past.

Mr. Pasternak also knew that the island in mid-summer entertains thousands of visitors, a not inconsiderable factor in pre-release publicity for a movie. It also

BY DREW PEARSON

Vienna—(By Cable)—The place where the United States and Russia have come closest to grips is not Berlin but Austria. Here the Red army got in first and for a time it kept the other Allies out. Here the Russians immediately appointed their own Austrian government and expected to run it and here—in a little country almost completely surrounded by Russian-dominated Yugoslavia, and Hungary—Moscow planned to establish its economic capital for the Danube.

The amazing thing is that with all the cards stacked in their favor the Reds have completely failed. This is due partly to the ruthlessness of the Red army, which has alienated everyone it has come in contact with, and partly it is due to the shrewdness of an American general who has outsmarted the Russians at every turn. His tactics are worth studying. They may be the key which the United States should adopt in other areas, perhaps even as a national policy.

Vienna, of course, is the most famous city in history when it comes to oriental invasions. For centuries, armies from Asia have swept up the Balkan peninsula or across the Caucasus in attempts to conquer all Europe—only to be stopped at Vienna.

The Turks came to the very gates of Vienna before they were turned back. The Mongols got as far as Budapest and left behind them the Magyars of Hungary. Now Vienna is the battleground for another historic invasion—a new Slav penetration, waving not the banner of the Czar but slogans of Communism and determined to swallow Austria and use it as the springboard to the Adriatic, Italy and southwest Europe.

—CLARK CHECKED RUSSIANS—

The man who has chiefly checked this latest invasion is tall, ramrod-built Gen. Mark Clark who, three years ago, landed at Casablanca, fought his way up through Italy, and now commands a small but determined American army in Austria. On the other side of Austria, a Russian army four times as large as the American force occupies a much larger slice of the nations while French and British armies occupy the rest of Austria. Here in the city of Vienna meets the Allied council—the real rulers of this beleaguered little nation. Under the declaration of Moscow, the Allied council is charged with the building up of Austria on the ground that its people were thrown into war by Hitler without their consent, and that a healthy Austria is also healthy for a democratic Europe. Although the Soviet was a 100-per cent subscriber to this doctrine, its general on the Vienna Allied commission has followed exactly the opposite policy.

Aside from shooting at American airplanes, stealing U. S. jeeps, murdering occasional American M. P.'s and blocking U. S. army transportation, the Russians also have followed a painstaking policy of wrecking the Austrian economy. This is where Clark and the Russians have vigorously come to grips.

At the start of the occupation, for instance, the Russians demanded 900,000 schillings to pay for Red army costs in Austria. Since Austria must also pay U. S., British and French army costs, this just about bankrupted the country. So Clark has urged, even demanded, that the Russians scale down their occupation costs. Last month this argument finally came to a crisis when Clark proposed that the Russians reduce their costs to 123,000,000 schillings for the next quarter. The Russians, however, said "No"—that 200,000,000 schillings was the least they would take—and they threatened to walk out of the council.

—"TOUGH" POLICY WORKS—

One of Clark's toughest fights was over the return of German Nationals, or Volkendeutsche, some of whose forebears had settled in Austria 300 years ago but who were declared Germans by Hitler and now, by a Soviet decree, are to be ousted from the Russian zone. Many of the Volkendeutsche are farmers and the Austrian government didn't want them ousted until after harvest time.

One day General Clark was attending an Allied council meeting when an aide suddenly thrust a memo in front of him. It reported that 54,000 Germans were being herded by the Russians across the bridge into the American zone. Those in front had reached the middle of the bridge and had been stopped by American guards, but the Russian guard would not let them turn around and go back. They were, blocking all traffic, unable to move backward or forward. Furthermore, they carried phony American permits.

Hastily, Clark adjourned the Allied council for five minutes, called out massive Gen. Alexei Zheltov, one-time Soviet wrestler and now a member of the Soviet NKVD (secret police).

"There are 54,000 Volkendeutsche crossing the bridge into my zone," Clark told Zheltov. "They have fake passports given them by you. You know it and I know it. I am not going to let them cross the bridge. If your guards do not send them back, I will call in the press and tell the world exactly what's happened."

A few hours later the long line of Germans was turned back from the bridge into the Russian zone. Clark's policy of being tough had worked again.

GLIDERS SELL FOR $75 EACH

Crating Lumber Draws More Buyers Than The Aircraft

Tobyhanna, Pa., (AP)—One thousand gliders go on sale this week at the Army's Military Reservation here—but the crates in which they're packed are attracting more prospective buyers than the aircraft.

Each glider, the war assets administration disclosed, is contained in five packing crates. The five crates add up to 7,000 board feet of hard-to-get lumber.

Among the prospective buyers is George Driebe, Stroudsburg, Pa. war veteran. He says he wants six gliders, will use the cases as guest cabins on a tract he owns along the Delaware river. He figures the glider wings will serve as porch roof and awnings—with any spare lumber usable for hot dog stands, and a bathhouse.

The gliders originally cost $20,000 each. For the sale, the WAA has valued them at $75, including the crates, which brings the lumber in the crate down to $10.75 a thousand board feet. That compares to $40 to $100 in the current market, says Col. George L. Oliver, commanding the Tobyhanna Military Reservation.

Federal agencies will get the first chance to buy on Aug. 15. World War II veterans with eligibility certificates get next chance the following day—if any are left.

But the buyers will not get any flying machines. The Civil Aeronautics has declined to certify the gliders as aircraft.

Scientists Find Germans Used New And Better Solder

Washington — Silver-magnesium solder that can withstand the temperatures within gas jet turbines was found in Germany by American investigators. It is a material that should have wide value in the United States.

In addition to its use in turbines, the solder can be used in the fabrication of stainless steel heat exchangers, exhaust manifolds, gas turbine parts, and general chemical equipment where high heat is encountered.

The solder is made of 85 per cent commercially pure silver and 15 per cent magnesium. Addition of magnesium to pure silver in this proportion gives an alloy with excellent soldering properties, it is said, and does not lower the melting point of the silver. The solder has a melting point of 1790 degrees Fahrenheit, and retains its high strength up to 850 degrees Fahrenheit.

A report of the silver-magnesium solder with additional facts relative to it was issued here today by the Office of Technical Services, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Primitive Isle Royale Joins National Parks

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

Isle Royale National Park, Mich., Aug. 12.—(AP)—At a dedication ceremony Aug. 27, this last bit of the primitive north woods officially joins the national parks.

The Interior department has announced that Undersecretary Oscar L. Chapman will be the principal speaker at the ceremonies. Gov. Kelly, Senator Vandenberg and Rep. Hook will also participate.

Isolated by miles of the clear water of Lake Superior, this 200-square mile island and its 200 satellite islands have remained virtually untouched by civilization since its discovery by the French explorer, Etienne Anton Brule in the early 17th century.

Riding the motor launch which makes the 50-mile semi-weekly trip from Copper Harbor, the nearest point of Michigan shore, a wealthy man from Omaha, Neb., remarked one day this summer: "I gave up traveling abroad 20 years ago to come here every year. This beats anything I've seen."

Rocky shores, crowned with a thick growth of spruce, balsam, and birch trees, were rising into view.

The launch, reaching the island, chugged along the shore for some six miles. Its harsh noise was discordant with the eternal stillness of the forest. Its progress sent small flocks of loons and ducks screaming from waters where they obviously had more right than the boat.

The coast-wise trip over, the launch and its small load of travelers entered a cove and tied up at Rock Harbor Lodge, one of three small resorts which perch on the edge of the wilderness.

These resorts, the park headquarters, a few private cabins and fishermen's huts are the only human habitation along the 44-mile length and nine-mile width of the island.

The travelers were greeted by an efficient lodge staff which, they learned, was ready to plan hikes in the forest, fishing trips, evening entertainments and boat trips. Lunch was waiting in a dining room of rough-hewn timber that looked out over the cove.

The cabins, laid out with an eye to the unusual views of the site, all are a stone's throw from the forest. The visitors learned there was nothing unusual in a 1,000-pound bull moose ambling between the cabins down to the lake in the evening.

Guides were available to take a party for a day of "deep-sea" fishing. The object of these sorties was the ten and 15-pound lake trout which team in the waters around the island.

One of the highlights of such a fishing trip is lunch. The guide builds a campfire on shore and cooks some of the fish. The amateur fishermen swear they have never tasted food to compare with the tender, pink meat, delicately browned on the outside.

Wily old Ben Franklin is credited with making Isle Royale part of the United States. Only 15 miles from the Canadian mainland, the island would have fallen into Canadian jurisdiction if the boundary line had been set in the middle of Lake Superior as it was in the other lakes.

However, Franklin is said to have heard the tales of fabulous copper deposits brought back by the early French explorers. The treaty of Paris which followed the Revolutionary war set the boundary just north of the island.

Until 1842, the Ojibway Indians spasmodically occupied the island, but then it was ceded to the federal government. The land was sold to private interests and copper mining began in 1846. It proved unprofitable and by 1872 the last miner had left Isle Royale's harsh winters and short summers to lumbermen who maintained scattered camps.

Lumbering, too, was unprofitable, because of the difficulty of access. By the early part of this century, the island was virtually abandoned except for fishermen and a few summer residents.

The movement to make the island a national park sprang up in Michigan more than 20 years ago. The state government approved and gradually acquired title to much of the land. The federal government accepted the titles in 1931. Delays in acquiring some of the land, however, held up the island's actual administration as a park until the summer of 1939.

The formal dedication was delayed until this summer by the war. A forest hike on the island is an adjective-testing experience.

The hiker, following trails marked with orange triangles, strides through acre upon acre of wild terrain characterized by thick timber and bushes. The forest floor is carpeted with leaves that have been falling for hundreds of autumns. Wild roses grow in a profusion reminiscent of dandelions, wild orchids are common, and a host of other wild flowers brighten the tree-shaded glades.

Geologists say the whole island is the product of an ancient volcanic upheaval, and the hiker finds himself clambering over and beside huge masses of the out-cropping rock.

Birds of every variety add flashes of bright plumage and their songs to the effect.

Inevitably, the hiker comes upon one of the hundreds of lonely little lakes. Lying before him is a piece of polished crystal with trees admiring themselves in its edges. The surface breaks as a rainbow trout leaps for an unwary fly.

The hiker is very likely to be overcome with the desire to sit down there and never move again.

Chief purpose of this week's conference was to acquaint U. P. truckers with public service commission regulations and to help in obtaining strict enforcement of such rules.

ALL VETERANS ARE INVITED

Ex-Service Men Urged To Attend Victory Day Event

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce mailed postcards yesterday to Delta county veterans of World War II, inviting them to participate in the Veterans' day celebration to be held in Escanaba Wednesday, Aug. 14.

Veterans not receiving the invitations are to consider themselves welcome to take part in the celebration. Roy Overpack, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, said. It is believed likely that the C. of C. does not have a complete list of returned service men.

All veterans are asked to assemble at the Escanaba junior high school two o'clock Wednesday afternoon to march in the parade.

Most business houses, public offices and industries will be closed during the celebration.

Farmers Anxious Over Weather As Crops Mature

Washington—While corn farmers in the Great Lakes region looked anxiously for rain, cotton farmers in the Southeast looked with equal anxiety for sunshine. It has been raining too much in that region, and the crop is suffering, reports from field observers to U. S. Weather Bureau headquarters here indicate.

Corn in the main producing areas is in good to excellent shape, despite the developing drought which has become serious in the southern Plains region as well as around the Great Lakes. The drought would have been more troublesome if there had not been a break in the heat during the past few days.

The same dry weather that made the farmers worry about their corn was beneficial so far as hay is concerned. It also facilitated the remaining small-grain harvesting, which is still going on in the northernmost states. Farther south plowing in preparation for the next crop of winter wheat is already in progress, except where the soil is too dry to work.

Smithsonian Institution Is 100 Years Old; Given To U.S.A. By Englishman

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—One hundred years ago today Congress established the Smithsonian Institution after debating for eight years whether to accept the bequest of "a blue-blooded foreigner" born out of wedlock.

James Smithson, son of the Duke of Northumberland and of Elizabeth Keate Macie, lineal descendant of King Henry VII, died in 1829 and had left his half-million dollar estate to the United States. His will provided that the money be used "to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Smithson, an English chemist, was at one time a president of the Royal Society. He had never married and in his later years was an ill and lonely man, spending most of his time in France and Italy. The circumstances of his birth rankled him for he once wrote: "The best blood of England flows in my veins. On my father's side I am a Northumberland and on my mother's I am related to Kings but this avails me not. My name shall live in the memory of man when the titles of the North-umblands and the Percys are extinct and forgotten."

Smithson inherited most of his fortune from his mother. His will bequeathed his estate to his nephew, Henry J. Hungerford, with the stipulation that should Hungerford die without heirs it would go to the United States.

Hungerford died in 1835, unmarried and without heirs. The estate totaled some $550,000, a great fortune in those days. Rush had $508,000 converted into cash.

Why Smithson chose the United States as his beneficiary is something of a mystery. He had never visited America and he didn't know anyone in this country.

A leading opponent of accepting the bequest was South Carolina's famed states-righter, Senator John C. Calhoun. He and others argued it would tend to increase "centralization" of the government and that it was beneath the dignity of the nation to receive benefits from a foreigner.

John Quincy Adams, then a member of the House after serving as President, was rated the most influential supporter. Senator Jefferson Davis of Mississippi, later President of the Confederacy, also supported it. Congress finally approved the bequest on August 10, 1846.

The Institution's collections contain over 18,000,000 specimens. More than 50,000,000 persons have visited it.

The exhibits range from butterflies to the skeletons of prehistoric behemoths, from primitive torches to instruments for measuring solar radiation, from black diamonds to meteorites, and from the original Star Spangled Banner to Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic plane, the tiny Spirit of St. Louis.

The march of man is illustrated by primitive tallying devices, the first typewriter, ancient stoves, old time-keeping devices such as the candle clock and the slow burning rope, the country's first sewing machines, bicycles, automobiles, airplanes, phonographs, telephones and radios.

The Institution is the father of the Weather Bureau and the Bureau of Fisheries. In 1849 the Institution began transmitting weather information by "electro-magnetic telegraph."

Each year the institution sends out 25 to 30 scientists in this country and to the far corners of the earth to gather new facts and

Miss Gustafson,
Donald Koers
Exchange Vows

At one of the more colorful weddings of the mid-summer season, Miss Laverne Gustafson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Reynold Gustafson, 200 South 17th street, was united in marriage to Donald Koers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Koers, 24133 River Rouge Drive, Detroit.

Baskets of gladioli decorated the altar of the Bethany Lutheran church for the four o'clock candlelight service on Saturday afternoon, August 10. The Rev. Emory Pokrant performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a gown of white lace imported from Belgium. Her full-length matching veil, an heirloom, was held in place by a circlet of lilies of the valley. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white snapdragons, roses, and gladioli.

Miss Marilyn Gustafson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a white silk Colonial dress and a circlet of red carnations in her hair. Her Colonial bouquet was fashioned of red carnations and white snapdragons.

Miss Lou Pearson, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Margaret Beck, R. N., a close friend, were the bridesmaids. They wore identical red and white candy-striped Colonial dresses, white snapdragons in their hair, and carried bouquets of white snapdragons and white carnations.

Thomas Deeb of Detroit served as best man, and groomsmen were James McGrath of Detroit and Stanley Gustafson of Chicago, a cousin of the bride. Ushers were Warren Gustafson, the bride's brother, and Jack Schils, her cousin.

Little Lee Camp, the ring-bearer, son of Victor Camp of Escanaba, wore long black trousers and a white dinner jacket, to match the attire of the men in the wedding party.

Music preceding the ceremony included violin solos by Miss Ruth Glad and organ solos by Leroy Norquist. The vocal soloist, Miss Florence Anderson, sang "Because" and "Until."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gustafson chose a two-piece dress of black sheer, white accessories, and a white straw hat trimmed with black maline. Her corsage was of red and white carnations.

Mrs. Koers' dress of pink chambray was trimmed with white eyelet, and she wore a pink and white picture hat and white accessories. Pink and white carnations formed her corsage.

Following the ceremony, the newly-married couple left the church in a horse-drawn carriage, which was decorated in red and white.

200 Attend Reception

Later, the bridal party and members of the families attended a wedding dinner at the Dells. Yellow snapdragons, and a large white bell, tied with satin bows and streamers, formed the table decorations.

During the evening, 200 guests attended a reception at the Gustafson home. A large white hopped with white net bows and gladioli, decorated the archway into the dining room, where a buffet table was arranged. Appointments were in white, with a four-tiered cake topped with a miniature bridal couple, centering the table. A 24-inch doll, dressed like the bride, completed the effective decorative scheme.

Mr. and Mrs. Koers left to spend their honeymoon at a summer resort cottage at Point Pelee in Canada, on the north shore of Lake Erie. For her going-away costume, the bride selected an aquamarine and black suit, a black straw hat, and black accessories.

The couple plan to make their home at 4712 West Vernor Highway in Detroit, where Mr. Koers is employed as a buyer for the Wolverine Packing company. He was recently discharged from service, after being stationed in the European theatre, where he was a prisoner in Germany for two years.

The bride, before her marriage, was a nurse at Vaughan Veterans hospital at Hines, Ill.

Out-of-town Guests

Among those attending the wedding were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Koers of Dearborn; his two sisters, Shirley Doherty and Mrs. Glenna Daniels of Detroit; James McGrath and Thomas Deeb, Detroit; Miss Margaret Swanson, R. N., Sault Ste. Marie; Miss Irene Nylander, R. N., and Miss Margaret Beck, R. N., Hines, Ill.; Mrs. Ralph F. ALASKA RICH IN MINERALS

But Poor Transportation Facilities Delay Development

By PHIL RICH

On the way back from Hyder, Alaska—The big Premier Mine which is located in Canada on the border has an aerial cable that runs 11 miles back in the hills—22 miles of cable—and this cable brings out the ore to the docks where it is shipped out for refining.

Frank Fisher, who was riding a bucket one day between stations had the misfortune to have his bucket trip and dump him out. He fell 90 feet but luckily for him he landed in a deep snowbank and lived to tell about it. When he failed to show up at the next station the boys started a search for him and found him trying to pull himself out of the snow.

Art Moa, who went with us to the Salmon glacier the other day, tells us that over in British Columbia there is untold wealth in coal, timber, water power and minerals. It seems that they had already started a rail line back into the hills when the war came along and stopped the project. This line started at Stewart—just across the line from Hyder.

Moa says the Groundhog coal fields cover 3,000 square miles and that there is much high grade anthracite; that they estimate five to 10 billion feet of timber in the Naas (also spelled Nass) river valley; that they have a potential of 500,000 acres of potential agricultural land there and a potential of 400,000 horsepower in the rivers. Besides all this he says there is gold, silver, lead, copper, zinc and mercury in the rock formations and stream beds.

They had built some 14 miles of railroad before the war when the property was being developed by a man named Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann. The railroad headed for the Peace river valley and had it been completed would have been the far north rail route east and west for Canada. The dope up here is that some of the property east of Stewart has now been taken over by Consolidated Mining and Smelting.

The Riverside mine, which is now active, is located seven miles out of Hyder. This is in U. S. territory. There is also some diamond drilling going on with the idea of prospecting the Salmon river all the way to Salmon glacier and the place is pretty well sewed up with claims.

Arthur Hodgman, the forest ranger, who is on this trip with us, tells me that there is a lot of timber in this panhandle district of Alaska. He says there is plenty of cedar—both Western red and Alaska or yellow. Some of the red runs up to five or six feet on the stump. There is Sitka spruce and he measured one tree which was 13 feet, 3 inches in diameter.

Western hemlock runs up to four feet or better in diameter. They have some 76 billion feet of merchantable timber in Alaska.

There is potential water power and although there is no large development right now, we hear from some sources that a big pulp mill will be brought in before long.

One draw-back to development up here is transportation. It's a long way from the users—or chief users of such produce as wood. But on the other hand Scandinavian print paper is being shipped to the U. S. about as cheap as it can be made here. But labor is high up here and the country is rough. The timber growth in many places is too spotty for large operations, so much of the timber is dying of old age. Some day it will be developed when Alaska gets roads, railroads and improved boat service.

On the way downriver we saw a chap waving to us from a boat a mile or so away across the canal. So the Skipper turned and headed for him. It was the only fishing boat we had seen either going or coming. The chap was Nick Cristovich who lives near "Breezy point." He asked Skipper Lyle Blodgett to send him up a part for his motor on the next mail boat. "How'd you like some crabs?" he asked the skipper. "Are they cooked?" inquired the skipper. When assured that they were cooked, the skipper accepted and we had a feast on lumbo or dumppeness crabs. We hardly made a dent in the eight big ones he gave us, but the four of us and a visitor

Why is a Maritime Strike Threatened On the Great Lakes?

A STRIKE IS THREATENED ON THE GREAT LAKES BECAUSE the National Maritime Union (C. I. O.) has failed to obtain the consent of the great majority of Great Lakes seamen to have this union represent them in collective bargaining.

The fact is that the ships of the undersigned companies transport over 90% of the iron ore, coal, grain and limestone on the Great Lakes and whenever elections have been held on their ships, the National Maritime Union (C. I. O.) has been rejected by their employees.

This strike has been called to attempt to obtain by intimidation what the Union has failed to accomplish through peaceful means recognized by law,

The cargoes carried in the ships of these companies are vital for the increased production so essential to the reconversion program and so necessary for the prevention of inflation, and the full capacity of the Great Lakes Bulk fleet is now taxed to the utmost.

Any failure to deliver the full requirements of iron ore, coal, grain and limestone before December 1st will endanger thousands of jobs in many industries whose full operation depends on these vital raw materials.

Lake seamen were granted a substantial wage increase last spring. They have received increases in various classifications ranging from 76% to 105% since January 1, 1941.

Because the National Maritime Union does not represent the employees of any one of these companies and because 90% of the vital tonnages of iron ore, coal, limestone and grain is carried in their ships, the undersigned companies want the Public to know these facts.

Rich Lock Maker, 78, Marries Negro And Protects Daughter

San Francisco (P)—Gustav Woerner, 78 wealthy lock manufacturer, drove out of the city alone on a holiday trip Saturday after disclosing that he and Juanita Smith, 45, negro, had wed in New Mexico after a romance that began 30 years ago.

An Albuquerque, justice of the peace Miles Kangun said he received "a generous fee" for marrying Woerner and the San Francisco beauty operator last Thursday.

Two San Francisco newspapers—the Examiner and the Call-Bulleton—which interviewed Woerner briefly before he left the city quoted him as saying the couple's 15-year-old daughter witnessed the Albuquerque ceremony, and adding "in order to get a birth certificate for the child, I married this woman. It was the only thing I could do—it was the honorable thing to do."

"It's my child. It's my responsibility. I couldn't leave her without a birth certificate—what would any honorable person do?"

Mrs. Woerner could not be reached for her comment.

Mildred Vichi, marriage license clerk at Albuquerque, said Woerner told her the couple went to New Mexico because that state was one of the few permitting whites and negroes to intermarry.

Office employees witnessed the ceremony. The bride wore a dark tailored suit and a silver fox fur. The couple made the San Francisco-Albuquerque trip by plane.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Asselin, Boot Lake residents, were both found guilty of charges of assault and battery here Monday by Justice of the Peace W. G. Stephens and each was confined to the county jail until they provide individual peace bonds of $500.

Mrs. Asselin had charged her husband with assault and battery last Thursday after a dispute over Asselin's right to drive a car the two own. Missing Airman, Harold Rushford Is Presumed Dead

PLANT STRIKE HERE GOES ON

No Settlement Imminent
In Handle Factory
Dispute

C. S. Slining, owner and general manager of the Northwoods Manufacturing company, said yesterday that he had no comment to make about the strike of some 40 of his employees, which halted operations at the plant July 26 and there appears to be little possibility of an immediate settlement of the dispute.

The 17-day-old strike was called by representatives of Local No. 2979, AFL, Carpenters and Joiners Union, whose members in the employ of the Northwoods company are asking for a 12½ cents hourly wage increase over the 62½ cents per hour paid by the plant. The union also asked the company to recognize truck drivers in its employ as members of the local.

It has been charged by Emerel Tetreault, president of the local, that Slining refuses to negotiate and an appeal has been made by the union to the state labor relations board.

U. S. Department of Labor Mediator John Luecke, Escanaba, attempted to arrange a meeting between the plant owner and

The Sports Scoreboard

By Harry Grayson

New York, (NEA)—Postwar performance in baseball, golf and boxing has been highly unsatisfactory to date, but football hardly can miss taking up the slack.

The college pictures are a bit hazy, but the haze is more likely to clear into coaches' dreams than nightmares.

With service men returning by platoons, rich in experience and eager to get in the scrap for comeback honors the strategists frankly, almost frantically, admit the impossibility of picking anything like a varsity squad until practice gets under way.

Michigan is a typical example. More than 20 lettermen are definitely available and the number is increasing almost hourly.

The big question now is: To what extent can players who have been in the armed forces form one to four years regain their previous condition and form?

If the bulk of them come through, Fritz Crisler of Ann Arbor looks for the greatest season the college game has ever seen.

With the Wolverines are four members of the remarkable 1942 iron man varsity, which whipped the strongest band Great Lakes assembled 9-0, belted Notre Dame and Ohio State.

Can Bob Chappuis, to name one, be the twisting, fighting 185-pound tornado he was four years ago, when the tall, handsome sophomore threw four perfect passes to top Great Lakes?

Don Robinson scored a touchdown as the dashing, 1942 crenelated Notre Dame, 32-14. Then Robinson became a bomber pilot, has numerous decorations.

Robinson went through the high-pressure 1942 campaign without a scratch, carried out 27 missions in which his co-pilots were wounded, crewmen killed, plane was on fire, without being hurt. Then he twisted his knee in a football game in Italy!

Robinson got back last fall in time to throw a touchdown pass against Minnesota before the knee injury shelved him, submitted to an operation on it when the season ended. He, too, came back to clinch the shortstop job on the baseball team.

Michigan's young team of last fall gave Army more trouble than any other outfit, so if the GI's hit anything approaching their previous form, West Point will have something more to think about than Notre Dame and Navy.

Further indications of interest in college football are that the Michigan-Army game at Ann Arbor was sold out Aug. 1, the Michigan-Ohio State battle in Columbus Aug. 2.

And just try to catch Notre Dame somewhere along the line.

PAPERMILLS DEFEATED, 8-3

Squinch's Bar Of Iron Mountain Runnerup In Class B

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of Escanaba won the district Class A softball championship here Sunday night, defeating the Escanaba Paper Mills, 8 to 3, in the title game.

Larmay's of Ford River Switch, the surprise team of the tournament, captured the Class B title with a walloping 14 to 3 triumph over Squinch's Bar of Iron Mountain in the championship match.

The VFW fought two close battles Sunday before reaching the finals. They staged a late rally to eliminate the Manistique Paper Makers, 4 to 2, Sunday morning and upset the Escanaba Liberty Loans, 4 to 3, in the semi-finals in a match that was tough and go all the way.

The Class A championship game proved to be something of an anti-climax as the usually reliable Paper Mill team folded up with a severe case of tournament jitters, committing six errors. Several of them were particularly costly, as the Vets chased home eight runs on only four hits.

The Paper Mill reached the finals by walloping Wally's and Frank's of Gladstone, 13 to 4, and upsetting the classy Holy Name team of Kingsford, 4 to 3, in the semi-finals. A tactical error proved the undoing of the visitors in this game. With the score tied at 3-all in the last of the seventh and a runner on third base, T. Paternoster, Kingsford pitcher, tossed three successive balls to Eugene, Paper Mill hurler.

The intentionally called for an intentional pass rather than an easy pitch. Paternoster tossed in a slow strike and Eugene let it pass, but when Paternoster repeated the pitch, Eugene slammed it for a clean single, bringing in the winning run from third.

The Class B championship game also was an anti-climax to some spectators and exciting play in early round games. After playing three games of almost flawless softball, Squinch's Bar split apart at the seams in the championship game and committed eight errors.

In addition their pitcher, Casanova, who had hurled all of the games for his team earlier in the day, was obviously tired in the championship game and Larmay's laid on him for 14 hits.

The Class B championship probably was settled in the quarter finals when Larmay's eliminated Peoples Bar, 7 to 5, in the most exciting game of the entire tournament. This contest went 13 innings before a decision was reached. Larmay's tied the score in the upper half of the seventh at 4-all. Five scoreless innings followed but in the 13th Larmay's pushed across three runs. Peoples Bar counted only one in their half of the frame.

At the conclusion of the championship games, team trophies and individual medals were awarded to the VFW and Larmay's by Rev. A. A. Schabow, president of the Escanaba Softball association.

The tournament games brought out the largest crowds in the history of local softball play and total receipts exceeded $1,000, including entry fees.

Teams qualifying for the Upper Peninsula tournament at Iron Mountain August 17-18 are: Class A—Escanaba VFW, Escanaba Liberty Loan, Escanaba Paper Mill, and Kingsford Holy Name; Class B—St. Ann C.Y.O., Nahma, Peoples Bar, Larmay's, Squinch's Bar, Buck Inn, Verhamme's of Gladstone, and Bill's Bar, Kingsford.

Trenary Loses By 10 to 2 Count At Gladstone Sunday

Gladstone—Aided by 9 errors, the Gladstone All-Stars trimmed the Trenary Pirates, 10-2 at the Bayshore diamond Sunday afternoon.

However, the game was far from decided entirely by errors for the All Star hurler, Sarasin, a tiny 14-year-old lad who looked like he might have a time getting the ball from the mound to the plate, surprised the fans by allowing but six scattered hits while striking out nine. Hits were well scattered and he walked none.

Gladstone took the lead in the opening inning and added to it throughout the game. The big innings were the 5th and 6th when they scored 3 and 4 runs, respectively.

Trotter of the Pirates had a good day at bat getting three out of four trips to the plate.

Commission Has Kick On Geese Flyway Ban

Roscommon, Mich., Aug. 12. (P)—The state conservation commission, concurring reluctantly in federal waterfowl regulations for this fall's hunting, objected vigorously today to a closed season on Canada geese in the Mississippi flyway, which includes Michigan.

The commission instructed its director, P. J. Hoffmaster, to wire protests to President Truman and Secretary of Interior Krug at imposition of the regulations without previously consulting Michigan officials.

Don P. McLouth of Detroit, member of the commission, said that if Michigan authorities are not consulted next year before the regulations are promulgated the state may decline to enforce the federal rulings.

Supporting the commission, President B. H. Dahlka of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, urged that Albert M. Day, chief of the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service, be asked to explain the basis of the agency's recommendations for new regulations.

The new waterfowl regulations reduce the season from 80 to 45 days, Oct. 5 to Nov. 18, and reduce the bag limit from 10 to seven, including one wood duck. The possession limit is 14.

The commission ordered the start of pheasant shooting be delayed until 10 a. m. on the first two days of the season in a move to conserve the bird population.

The previous opening hour was 7 a. m. The season dates were left at Oct. 15 to Nov. 5.

The same partridge season as last year was ordered, but the limits were reduced from five a day, 10 in possession and 25 for the season to three a day, six in possession and 15 for the season.

A closed season on prairie chickens and sharp-tailed grouse was ordered in the lower peninsula and in the west end of the Upper Peninsula. Shooting will be allowed only in Chippewa, Leela, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, Alger, Delta, Marquette and those parts of Dickinson and Menominee counties lying north of Highway M-69.

WAR RUINED JAP WHALING

Japanese Catch Dropped
From 13,000 Whales
To 531 In 1945

Washington (SS)—Japan's whaling industry, a highly important contributor to the island empire's food and commercial economies, was practically wiped out by the war. Figures from official Japanese sources, just received here, show that the annual catch by Japanese whalers collapsed from a prewar figure of nearly 13,000 whales to only 531 in 1945.

Before the war, Japan had a fleet of six so-called factory ships, each capable of hauling a whole dead whale onto its deck and processing it for oil. Each of these factory ships was attended by a flotilla of small, tug-like killer boats that did the actual hunting and harpooning. With this fleet, Japan stood out even with Nazi Germany but was considerably outclassed by the whaling fleets of Norway and Britain.

In addition to the factory ships, which sought whales mainly in Antarctic waters, Japan had on the home mainland several shore stations for rendering whale oil and processing whale meat, and one such station in the Bonin Islands, in the Kuriles, and on the coast of Korea. Whale meat is unappetizing to Europeans and Americans, but the Japs seemed to like it.

Japanese whalers in distant waters seldom brought their whale oil home. They sold it on the homeward voyage, used the proceeds to buy petroleum, loaded that into their tanks to take back and add to the war-lords' stockpile of military essentials.

After Pearl Harbor the factory ships of course could not visit the far southern whaling grounds any longer. This was a break for the whalers, because Japan was the one power that refused to ratify or abide by the international agreement for whale conservation of prewar days, which even the Nazis observed—at least when people were looking. The ships, apparently converted for use as tankers, were found and sunk by Allied submarines and airplanes. It is believed that none of the six is left afloat today. The same fate overtook many of the killer boats, which were used as patrol craft and for other auxiliary purposes. Japan's whaling fleet is as thoroughly gone as her naval fleet.

Results show up strikingly in the whale-catch figures just received here. During the five-year period 1936-41, the number of whales of all species killed in Antarctic waters by Japanese whalers was 32,017. Japanese ships also sought whales in the Arctic during the two years just before the war; total catch for 1940 and 1941 was 1,252. For the five prewar years, the catch in home waters totaled 11,052 whales; the number had climbed from 1,217 in 1936 to 2,349 in 1941.

Then came the war, and with it the end of all factory-ship operations. Only the shore-based whaling in home waters continued. Before Pearl Harbor it apparently began to dwindle; for the 1942 catch was 1,148. In 1943 it had risen again to 1,491, and in 1944 the figure had been boosted to 2,169 dead whales.

Then came 1945, bringing total defeat and ruin: the count of whales taken for what had been the Japanese Empire is a mere 531, all in home waters.

It may prove desirable to let the Japanese catch whales again in their home waters, if only to replenish their bare national cupboard. If that is done, however, it is to be presumed that Gen. MacArthur will see to it that this time they observe international rules for whale conservation.

Catholic Laymen To Have Retreat At Camp Plagens

The fifth annual retreat for Catholic laymen will be staged at Camp Plagens August 16-18 under the guidance of Rev. Richard T. Dalton of Grand Rapids, a member of the St. Louis Province of the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer.

The retreat movement, which has gained many adherents in the Upper Peninsula during the past years, is primarily a strategic withdrawal from life, the retreatants contemplating their destiny and purpose and resting their bodies. Rev. Dalton, a missionary for 16 years, will conduct a three-day training course for the laymen.

Retreatants may register any time on Friday and the retreat will formally open with an eight o'clock supper, followed by introductions.

Saturday will be given over to Mass, spiritual reading, Rosary Procession, conferences, and a visit to the Blessed Sacrament with examination of the conscience in the morning. After dinner there will be forums, conferences, confession, stations of the Cross, and a visit to the Blessed Sacrament. Following supper will be conferences, confessions, and nocturnal adorations.

Sundays program completes the schedule. Conferences, spiritual reading, Stations of the Cross, and the Rosary in common will precede a farewell dinner at 1 o'clock.

Local men wishing to go are to sign up with their retreat captain, pastor, or to write to the Association president.

John J. Bartella of Escanaba is treasurer of the Upper Peninsula Laymen's Retreat association.
